In addition to being a big super market, Consumers has in its store a delicatessen, instore bakery, with a variety of baked goods; a large variety of cheeses, frozen foods and fresh meat, graded under the stores own quality test system.

Stamp savers will find a new type of stamps being offered at the Consumers Market-Orange Gift Stamps and they are redeemable at the store, with the merchandise being shipped in according to the wishes of the stamp holders, from Consumers warehouse in Springfield. Among the services at Consumers are six check-out counters and one express counter for customers with six items or less. Some 150 shopping carts are available at the store and Lemons says the carry-out service offered is geared to speed the customer along.

Consumers is a Springfield corporation which operates six stores in that city, one in Lebanon and one in Joplin under construction. A seventh store is on the planning board for Springfield. Clarence Wheeler is president of the firm.

Lemons, who resides on Route 2 with his wife and six children. has been with Consumers two vears. Prior to that he was employed by a chain store system for 16 years.

LIQUID Hog Wormer

time to be sure your hogs are free from worms. We can assure you that the most effective and most economical wormer is our own formula - LIQUID HOG WORMER. It is easy to use. Simply mix into the suggested amount of drinking water. It is so effective that very few if any worms can be found in the carcass two days after worming. This particular formula has been sold in this store to mny, many farmers who have teestified to its effectiveness and ease of use. It is not neceessary to starve hogs. Worm your pigs now-it will pay!

Average attendance for October was 76. This is a very good per cent of boys who are participating in the Boys Club program.

There will be no meeting of the club Saturday, Nov. 14, due to officials attending the Sho-Me area conference in Kansas City. The sessions will start at 10:30 and conclude with a banquet in the evening.

In the spot shooting contests Allan Johnson, Rick Dixon and Wyatt Jackson were high scorers.

Gordon Strain, weight lifting instructor, and several of the members of his class will attend the annual AAU weightlifting meet Saturday, Nov. 14, at Clinton. Mr. Strain will be one of the judges but none of the boys will compete in the meet this year. Wilbur Miller is the defending all around champion and will again be on hand to defend his title.

Memberships for 1965 are now available at the club and boys are asked to sign up as soon as possible so that teams can be arranged for the winter basketball leagues. Last year the winners played a schedule of 30 games. Teams will be in uniform again this year and another fine season is expected. All boys who are a member of a team will get to play in the league game at least a quarter. This is one of the rules of the league and gives each boy a chance to display his basketball ability and to learn to play as a member of a team.

Bulwark of an Office

emerge afresh in the painful days since November 22, 1963 in the marvelous character of the American pres-

The men who occupy this exalted office may change. But the presidency goes on, unshattered by an assassin's bullet, unsullied by the slurs of its detractors, elevating its occupants to efforts neither they nor their appraisers imagined possible.

Perhaps not many of us realize it is the oldest office of its kind on earth, though we are still among the vounger nations. It has withstood civil war, two colossal world wars, wrenching panics and depressions, death by assassination and by illness.

Nowhere else among the powerful countries of the globe does the chief executive of a free people stand out with such preeminence as does the American president.

Sidney Hyman, a historian who specializes in the presidency, notes in the New York Times magazine that the Founding Fathers made a crucial choice when they determined that the president should "stand on a plane of his own in full view of the nation." Hyman adds:

"It was meant that this one man, highly visible, with all eyes fixed on him, should himself view the nation as a great whole, and should seek to make his own impulses felt through its parts as a source of unity in diversity, of order in progress, of continuity in change."

The Constitution's framers made of this man ceremonial head of state, top officer of government, chief diplomat, commander-in-chief of the armed

One great and heartening fact to forces, principal legislator, to mention

Small wonder, then, that the U.S. presidency is looked upon with awe by those who hold it and by those both within and beyond the nation who grasp its authority and prestige.

Yet the very fact that the office rises so high above the plateau of ordinary power leads to serious misconceptions about it. The notion exists in some places that a president is allpowerful, that he can sweep away obstacles with the wave of a wand, that therefore there is no problem he cannot master.

The truth, naturally, is that the presidency is peculiarly limited in its powers despite its unique independancy of other branchs of govern-

Both Congress and the courts have countervailing power which must perforce be respected. The realities of competing politics are a further curb, as is the general mood of the nation. Political myths and legends are often as hard for a president to shatter as is the law itself which binds him

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON - Those close to the incredible Kennedy brothers, Bob and Ted. who will now serve side by side in the Senate, have no doubt that one will wind up in the White House to carry on the name of their slain brother. The only question: which one will be the next President Kennedy?

senior senator. As next in line, Bob is renedy's heir apparent. In the one-for-all and all-for-one Kennedy clan, the other memgive him his rightful turn.

Ted also appears to have more ballot-box appeal. He ran ahead of brother Bob when Massachusetts Democrats selected their delegates to the Atlantic City convention. Ted also kept pace with President Johnson in the general vote winning re-election in Massachusetts, by an overwhelming three-of President Johnson to whose coat tails he firmly clung, (though admittedly it is more difficult for a Kennedy to run in New York than in Massachusetts.)

Ted is now recuperating from a back injury, poignantly reminiscent of the late Jack Kennedy's battle with his back. This has led to whispers that Ted may wind up as a permanent cripple. But from his hospital bed, he sent cheerful word to this column that he expects to go skiing during

It is Ted Kennedy's quiet, dry sense of humor, however, that reminds friends most of the late President. They remember the baby-brother taunts when Ted first declared for the Senate and Ted's comment after

Hoover has roused their ire first by investigating and apprehending the terrorists who have been bombing Negro homes and churches in the South. Apparently the rightwing extremists, who scream about lawlessness in the streets, mean lawlessness in

The fanatics are also furious at Hoover for his failure to find that the unfortunate Walter Jenkins had violated security. They point accusingly to the fact that Hoover only his main duties.

This is the great reason the Presidency - and the particular occupant at any time - serves inescapably as a huge target for the disappointments, the frustrations, the anger that afflicts any measurable portion of the American people in a given moment of history.

So, the very remarkable visibility of the American president makes him sometimes critically vulnerable. But the resilience and durability of the office somehow invest it with the substance it needs to withstand assault -and remain as a great bulwark for Americans and all free men.

Kennedys Race For White House

Bob is the senior brother, but Ted is the garded inside the family as John F. Kenbers are expected to unite behind Bob and

The truth is that Hoover always sends flowers, as a routine matter, to any hospitalized White House aide or cabinet officer. Furthermore, the flowers were sent to Jenkins one day before the FBI was ordered to investigate him

The FBI, which conducted a rushed but thorough investigation of Jenkins, could hardly invent a security violation that didn't exist

Nevertheless some fanatics have even made the fantastic charge that J. Edgar Hoover, one of the nation's most staunch anti - communists, has suddenly become "soft on communism."

Men to watch in the new Congress-Jonathan Bingham, progressive Democrat from New York whose father served as a senator from Connecticut. Jonathan was a member of the U.S. delegation to the United Nations.

Teno Roncalio, the son of an Italian immigrant coal miner in Wyoming, who defeated Republican Congressman William Henry Harrison of Wyoming, grandson of President Benjamin Harrison and great, great grandson of William Henry Harrison.

Richard McCarthy, a liberal Democrat from the Buffalo suburbs, who defeated John Pillion, the Republican who refused to accept the Warren report on Kennedy's assassination and who continually saw communists under the bed

Lloyd Meeds of Washington state, who defeated Republican Jack Westland, spokesman for the Northwest power companies. Walter Moeller, the Ohio Democrat once purged by the doctors' lobby, who last week staged a comeback Sidney Yates, the Illinois veteran who took on the tough job of trying to defeat Sen. Everett Dirksen but has now been re-elected to Congress

They never will be missed: Frank J. Becker, the Republican congressman from New York who introduced the prayer school amendment. Jack Westland, the Washington Republican who introduced the Westland amendment for the big public utilities, restricting the sale of Bonneville power on the Columbia River to California. Both were

Barry-Go-Round

Friends say Sen. Barry Goldwater, who put off making the traditional election-night concession statement, spent part of the night fiddling with his ham radio set, then went to sleep to the soothing piped-in sounds of a babbling brook. Goldwater wired his bed to produce the brook noises. . . When the Senator finally conceded next morning, he blamed everyone but himself for his defeat. Republican moderates double-crossed him, columnists and commentators unfairly attacked him. The implication was that he had been the victim of a dirty campaign... Those who followed Goldwater's speeches had the impression he was throwing most of the mud. He alternately accused President Johnson of being "soft on communism" and "soft on Nazism." Goldwater also called the President "a phony," "a faker," and "a crook." He charged that Johnson was "surrounded" by a corrupt and curious crew, though Goldwater himself used to run around with racketeers Willie Bioff and Gus Greenbaum and was surrounded by some of the most curious fanatics who have ever taken part in a presidential campaign.

Finds $1,000 Bill But Can't Spend It

ROCKFORD, Ill. (AP) James Barton says he is selling his car because he does not have $30 to fix it. He has a $1,000 bill, but the sheriff's office will not let him break it. Barton, 20, who does odd jobs, found the bill on a Rockford street Friday night. 'It was just lying there big as life," he reported. "I felt better after I turned it in." Sheriff's officers told Barton he would have to advertise three weeks, wait a year, and the bill would be his-if nobody claimed it.

"It'll come in handy in my old age," said Barton sadly.

EDITOR AND PUBLISHER: What an Audience! - Sixty million people spend their nickles and dimes for a newspaper every day of the week. Some days there are more. Some days less. That's the average. There is no other item in the U. S. economy, with the possible exception of the telephone, which the consumer buys so frequently and so consistently. It is the only medium of communication that is in such demand that the public is willing to buy it in such volume every day

Nielsen Media Service now tells us that 95 million persons, 81 per cent of the population over 18 years of age, read a daily newspaper on an average weekday and that 87.3 per cent of the U. S. households have at least one adult reader. The average reader looks into nearly seven different copies of a newspaper during a Monday through Friday week

We don't know what better proof there could be of the vitality of the newspaper as a news and advertising medium than that combination of figures showing daily purchase and use.

THE DOCTOR'S MAILBAG

Many Distresses Can Cause Nightmares

By Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D. Newspaper Enterprise Association

Q-What could cause nightmares in an elderly person?

A-Although nightmares are much more common in children and young adults, they may occur at any age. Some persons appear to have a special proneness to them.

It has long been believed that eating a heavy meal before retiring will cause nightmares. This is true insofar as the eating or overeating causes bodily discomfort. Physical distress in any part of the body whether a full stomach or a full bladder is often associated with frightening dreams.

If the victim has been accustomed to eating just before retiring, he should try abstaining from food for three or more hours before going to bed and see whether that helps. In some persons, the taking of sedatives, sleeping pills, antihistaminics, tranquilizers or appetite depressants just before retiring may cause nightmares. Obstruction of the nasal passages and sleeping with too much or too little covering are other possible causes. Nightmares may also follow seeing a horror film on the late television show or reading a horror story at bedtime. If any of these causes enter the picture they can be easily eliminated.

Q - I am a 27-year-old woman in excellent health. My problem is that my bust has never tus.

really developed. Is there anything could do or take for this? A - The development of the breasts depends on the interaction of ovarian, pituitary and adrenal hormones. Of these, the pituitary growth hormone is the most important. Without it the other two have no effect. Q - I am 50. I get such severe cramps in my legs at night that I have to jump out of bed. What can I do to stop them?

A - Although the cramps that come on suddenly w' en you are in bed can be very painful, they are not due to any serious disease. Extending and bending your legs rapidly or getting out of bed and walking a few steps will usually stop them. You should then find and maintain a comfortable position in bed. Quinine Vitamin D may help you, but you should consult your doctor about the amount you should take. Q — Usually what are the first symptoms of a faulty blood pressure? Can it be noticed without having a doctor take it

A - Faulty blood pressure may be either too high or too low. If it is too low, you will become lightheaded or faint. If it is too high, there will be no symptoms until the condition is far advanced and has damaged one or more of the vital organs. I know of no way to estimate the blood pressure without the use of a blood pressure appara-

When I told him to go blow his nose on a tissue, he denied that he needed one He had upset me enough and I knew that if I let his defiance go by. I would get bad indigestion. So I reached out and slapped his face. Then my husband started in on me. I want your frank opinion. How was I at fault? Do you have a psychological degree? What is it?

Are you qualified to . . . Answer: Listen to yourself. This is what you are saying to me: "This morning I received some pre-breakfast opposition from my 6-year-old boy. At the table he gave me more opposition by presuming to sniffle against my wishes. Then, refusing to obey my order to go blow his nose, he added yet more opposition to what he had already

This is what your indigestion is trying to tell you, too. It is using tension to protest the cruelty of the demand you are making on yourself.

> The answer to your son's breakfast table sniffles was to go and get him the tissue yourself. It was your wish, not his, that his nose be blown, you see. But you couldn't serve your own wish. You were utterly helpless to serve it. ways afraid to talk or act natural with kids I haven't known for a long while. I do wish I could become more popular at school. Please help me! — HIGH SCHOOLER

ANSWER: Move over, honey, you're not alone. Chances are half of your classmates feel the same way. Even the most outgoing teen - agers suffer, at times, from feelings of insecurity and unpopularity. Realizing that others are shy, too, may make you less afraid to talk or act natural with new acquaintances. Force yourself, if necessary, to ignore your own feelings and concentrate on making the other person feel at ease.

When you're with an extrovert who doesn't need encouragement, simply be a good listener. This involves more than being quiet while he talks. Act interested, ask occasional questions, make intelligent comments. You might try the compliment approach, also. Make a point of giving at least three sincere your classmates feel good about opened in 1897.

themselves, they'll feel good about you.

These pointers are general. LIGHT: I am in To be more specific, my teenage daughter tells me you'll have to decide whom you want to be popular with. Then do as they do. In high school, especially, it's important not to be too "different" from your crowd. Dress like your would-be friends; watch the television programs they talk about; read the books they discuss; buy the records they dance to. Right now, conforming is necessary for belonging. You can be an individualist later, when you're mature enough not to care what the "crowd" thinks

> And although they can't make friends for you, mom and dad can help. Ask dad if he'll chauffeur a group to and from a school play or athletic event. Offering transportation is usually a welcomed ice - breaker. Later, invite a few girls in for supper beforehand or snacks afterward. The possibilities are unlimited, depending on what your crowd likes to do.

Doors of the new store will open at 9 a.m. that morning. Actual opening of the store was Monday, but the grand opening ceremonies were delayed until Thursday.

Crowds believed to have set a record for touring a new store opening in Sedalia were on hand throughout the day Monday and were still going in at 9 p.m. The store is normally open from 8 a.m. to 11 p.m. An even larger crowd is expected to be on hand Thursday, according to Bob Singleton, Katz manager. Indications from stickers on cars parked at the shopping center Monday night are that many visitors to the shopping center come from communities outside of Sedalia. A store wide sale will start immediately after the grand opening and continue until closing Saturday night. Thousands of items will be specially priced, according to Singleton. Many of these items are advertised in a special Katz section with today's edition of The Democrat-Capital.

Customers convenience is the keynote in the sprawling store that contains more than 20,000 individual items.

Third Monday Haul

CHICAGO (AP)—It was blue Monday again for the manager of a North Side loan company office when a familiar robber took more than $200 from the till Monday.

The robber has looted the loan company on three Mondays in the last three months. James Sullivan, the manager, said the bandit was a bit miffed last month when one employe chased him after the robbery. Expressing disapproval of such action, the robber told employes on his third trip, "This time, don't get smart. Stay

Yellow Pages

Will they find you?

People use the Yellow Pages when they're ready to buy, rent, lease, or order services. Make sure they find your business easily with a display ad under each product, service, or brand-name item you sell. Featuring selective information about your business will help turn shoppers into buyers.

The better your business is represented in the Yellow Pages, the better opportunity you have of reaching consumers when they're ready to buy or order services. So why take chances?
